Kirby-Gonzalez wins seat on school board

■ Teachers unions and school reform groups choose sides with their checkbooks in record-setting race

SARAH KIRBY-GONZALEZ: Voters' top choice to fill empty school board seat

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento voters last week elected a teacher to the school board -- after a record-setting campaign battle between the two top candidates.

Sarah Kirby-Gonzalez, a Southport resident who teaches in the Folsom-Cordova school district, was picked to fill the remaining 18 months or so of a school board term in the local Washington Unified School District. She received 2,794 votes, or 51.2 percent of the ballots cast in the all-mail election on March 5.

Following her was Francisco Castillo, a public affairs executive with the school reform group StudentsFirst.He pulled in 1,425 votes, or 26.1 percent of the vote.

Rounding out the field were Linh Nguyen, with 782 votes (14.3%), Katherine Gales with 258 votes (4.7%) and Nicholas Scott Turney, with 202 votes (3.7%).

5,520 ballots were cast, or 23.9 percent of local registered voters.

The race – even though it was for only a partial school board term – appeared to set some spending records. Castillo approached $60,000 in campaign contributions as the election neared, with notable contributions from charter school advocates and entities connected to StudentsFirst, a school reform group.

At the same time, Kirby-Gonzalez was approaching half that amount – with strong support from area teachers' unions.

The campaign contribution numbers may go up further as campaigns finish reporting them after the election.

"I think it's time for us to rally around the candidate who won," Castillo told the News-Ledger after the ballots were counted. "It's time to congratulate Sarah, who ran a great campaign."

"I'm going to continue to stay involved," he added. "I want to start some kind of parent advocate network in West Sacramento. I want to talk to the business community and see if they will get more involved in education in West Sacramento. We don't need to be a school board member to implement some of these ideas."

Kirby-Gonzalez, the winner, will be sworn at Thursday's board meeting by her father, Auburn city councilman Dr. Bill Kirby, who will visit for the occasion.

What will she try to accomplish from Day One?

"Right away, it's just about working well with everybody, establishing relationships in town and on the board," said Kirby-Gonzalez. "My first goal is to make connections."

As far as policy:

"My biggest focus is always on curriculum, first and foremost," she said.

The News-Ledger asked Castillo whether the public made its choice based on a perception of him as a "school reform" candidate and her as a "teachers' union" candidate.

"I think voters made a choice, but this wasn't about reform voices versus teachers' unions," Castillo answered.

"I think he's right," Kirby-Gonzalez said after being told of Castillo's comment. "I talked to hundreds and hundreds of voters. None of them brought up StudentsFirst. We didn't talk about the opponents, we just talked about us. They wanted to know why I was running."

Locally-grown music

Dozens of music-lovers listened in respectful silence on Sunday as the West Sacramento Community Concert offered a free program at the civic center galleria. Selections were made from 'Les Miserables' and the Beatles, as well as Liguini's "Ballet Russe" and other choices.

The orchestra, under music director Gordon Waters, is seeking new musicians. The group rehearses Tuesdays 79 p.m., usually at River City High School. Call 991-5262.

Gas line error: little danger, according to WS fire department

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Gas line may have been pressurized to over ten times it's maximum operating pressure, but error occurred outdoors and was quickly fixed, according to PG&E and the West Sacramento Fire Department

A mistake by a PG&E work crew led to overpressurization of a business customer's gas line in January.

The utility company filed a mandatory "non-compliance report" about the incident with the California Public Utilities Commission, but local fire officials told the News-Ledger the event didn't appear to pose a serious danger to the public.

The event occurred on Jan. 15 at a distribution business on the 1300-block of Jefferson Boulevard, when a PG&E crew responded to the report of a gas smell and a leak.

"During the leak repair, an employee inadvertently shut in the relief valve" on the customer's line, "allowing pressure to build up in the service pipe," said the PG&E report. "Approximately 250 feet of 1-inch and ½-inch plastic service was overpressurized for approximately one minute, until the crew corrected the error and opened the valve to allow pressure relief."

The line was rated for a maximum operating pressure of 60 psig (pounds per square inch gauge. An attached gauge maxed out at its 150 psig reading, "however, the pressure in the service may have reached as high as 650 psig, which was the operating pressure in the upstream transmission line," said PG&E.

After relieving the pressure, the crew took the equipment out of service for replacement. In the meantime, they provided portable compressed natural gas to the customer.

Fire Marshal Brian Johnson noted that the involved lines were fairly small, and the mishap occurred outdoors.

"It was a small distribution line," he told the News-Ledger. "Less than one inch. With natural gas, it's half as light as air, so it will go up into the atmosphere. It's when it gets up in a building – a room or something – that's when it gets dangerous."

Fire Chief Al Terrell agreed, comparing it to a fatal gas line explosion in the Bay Area in 2010.

"From my point of view, it wasn't as big an event as it may have seemed," said Terrell. "Everything was well taken care of by the first responders, (city) public works and PG&E. It was nowhere near what happened in San Bruno."

Accused cop enters plea of 'not guilty' at Yolo Court arraignment

A former West Sacramento police officer pleaded "not guilty" Thursday to 35 counts of kidnapping and sexual offenses he allegedly committed while on patrol.

Sergio Alvarez, a 37-year old resident of the city, entered the plea in Yolo County Superior Court.

He was charged with rape and other offenses. Police spokesmen say that over a period of about a year, Alvarez assaulted a number of women he contacted while driving a patrol car on the "graveyard" shift in the West Capitol Avenue area.

The plea was made on Alvarez's behalf by attorney Gabriel Quinnan.

I'll leave those tough Russian novels for my wife

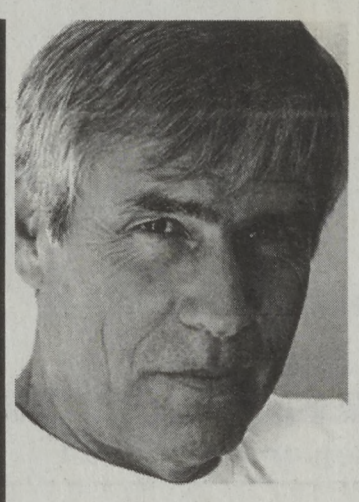
Years and years ago I took a college class from a professor who kindly pulled me aside one morning after her lecture and said, "Read Dostoevsky's 'The Brothers Karamazov.' It's one of the greatest novels ever written, and it has a lot of the answers you're looking for."

Although I greatly respected my professor -- I had already taken two classes from her -- the very last thing I wanted to do at that particular time in my life was sit down and read another lengthy old Russian novel. The pure torture of struggling through Tolstoy's War and Peace a year earlier was still fresh in my memory and I had sworn that I would never again pick up a book with dozens of hard to follow Russian characters whose names I could never seem to remember, much less spell. So I thanked my professor for her advice, assured her I would check out The Brothers Karamazov from the school library as soon as possible, and then I quickly turned my attention to a long awaited fraternity mixer that was scheduled to take place later that evening.

"What's that book you've been curled up with all weekend?" I asked my wife the other night.

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

"The Brothers Karamazov, by Dostoevsky," she mumbled, not even bothering to look up from the page she was reading.

"Really?" I said with interest. "Why in the world are you reading that?"

"Oh, your daughter gave it to me for homework," she explained. "She says she's got so many books to read this year that she's falling behind in a couple of her classes, so I'm helping her out a little bit."

"You know of course that she used that very same excuse on me last semester," I said, remembering that my assignment had been to read Anton Chekhov's short story, "Gooseberries." "I know," said my wife with a smile.

"So, do you like it?" I asked, pointing to the incredibly thick book in her hands. "Someone once told me it's pretty good."

"Well, it's really long, that's for sure."

"What's it about?"

"What is it not about is probably a better question, but it's basically about these three brothers, Alyosha, Ivan, and Dmitri, who had this evil father who they...."

"Not the plot," I interrupted, knowing that it was probably as vast as Russia itself. "I just kinda want to know if you've run across anything, you know, profound."

"Well, sure, but all the really good stuff is in these long speeches that Dostoevsky gives his characters. Why don't you just read it for yourself after I finish? I'm almost done with it."

"Oh, that's okay," I said, still not interested all these years later in picking up an 800-page Russian novel. "Can't you just mark a few of the places you think I'd like?"

"I will if you want," said my wife, but being the ex-English teacher she is, she quickly added, "but I really think you should read the whole thing for yourself. It's got just about everything you love in a book. Plus it's really depressing, just the way you like them."

"For instance?" I said, returning her smile.

"Well, let's see, among other things, it talks a lot about how life isn't fair or just, and how organized religion often leads people into bondage instead of freedom, and how the world is full of hypocrites, and how too many bad things happen to children, and how if you understand too much of how the world really works it'll drive you crazy."

"That sounds like my kind of book, alright," I agreed.

"Here," she said, thumbing back towards the beginning of the book, "I'll read you a quick little sample. I'm sure it will make you want to read the whole thing. Ivan is talking to Alyosha, and he says, `I have a longing for life, and I go on living in spite of logic. Though I may not believe in the order of the universe, yet I love the sticky little leaves as they open in spring. I love the blue sky, I love some people sometimes without knowing why. I love some great deeds done by men, though I've long ceased perhaps to have faith in them, yet from old habit one's heart prizes them. And I know I am only going to a graveyard, but it's a most precious grave-yard. Precious are the dead that lie there, every stone over them speaks of such burning life in the past, of such passionate faith in their work, their truth, and their struggle that I know I shall fall on the ground and kiss those stones and weep over them."

> 'I really think you should read the whole thing for yourself,' she said. 'It's got just about everything you love in a book. Plus it's really depressing, just the way you like them."

Later that evening, I took a deep breath, reluctantly picked up The Brothers Karamazov, turned to the first page, and began to read: `Alexey Fyodorovitch Karamazov was the third son of Fyodor Pavlovitch Karamozov. He was married twice, and had three sons, the eldest Dmitri, by his first wife, and two, Ivan and Alexey, by his second. Fyodor Palovitch's first wife, Aldelida Ivanovna....

"Nope," I whispered to myself, quickly closing the book, "I still can't read an endless Russian novel, no matter how wonderfully depressing I bet the darn thing is."

Letters to the Editor

Speak out on bridge

Any Southport resident in the know, or any city councilman if he's being honest, will acknowledge that the most logical location for the next new bridge is at Sutterville Road. Yes, the "I" street bridge definitely needs an upgraded replacement but at least there is a bridge there, and though unnecessary, a Broadway bridge accessed from 15th street would be a nice addition to the existing bridges in close proximity; the Tower Bridge and Pioneer overpass.

West Sacramento obviously has plenty of bridges in the northern part of the city, but none to the south. Consequently, traffic from the burgeoning Southport area continues to funnel north. Not only would a bridge at Sutterville Road ease increasing congestion on Jefferson Blvd. , it would provide direct access to southbound I-5, an alternative workday commute to the north, access to the zoo, Sacramento City College, Land Park, etc., and would serve as an additional evacuation route in the event of a flood.

But unfortunately because of the NIMBY (a nickname for "Not In My BackYard"-style activists) Land Park Community Association (LPCA) and their influence over the Sacramento City Council (SCC), the most needed and practical location was taken "off the table" a couple of years back. The fact that this self-serving little neighborhood group in collusion with the SCC can trump plans that would serve the greater community is frustrating enough, but the fact that the Mayor of West Sacramento and our City Council remain silent and refuse to publicly expose them is unacceptable.

Our mayor, and our city council should be rallying Southport residents and petitioning the LPCA and SCC to do the right thing for the good of the greater Sacramento area. And they shouldn't hesitate to involve the media, or at least those media members who don't live in Land Park.

Teach the trades

It is good to hear about the new patisserie at the Teen Center that hopes to train students in a skill that can be used in their career search (News-Ledger, Feb. 20).

I was surprised to hear that there was a Wyotech trade school in West Sac and that it is closing. This school taught all areas of auto and motorcycle maintenance but was privately owned and, of course, required tuition to attend. I don't know the details, but it seems this is the type of school and program our school district should be including for those students that are looking for career training but will not be attending college.

Our public high schools should be doing much more to provide actual career training that is not available in the typical high school curriculum.

Mayor Christopher Cabaldon

Mayor Christopher Cabaldon supported Castillo – as did various city council members, school board members and Yolo County Supervisor Michael McGowan. He agreed that the "teachers versus reformers" characterization didn't fly among local voters, although similar school board election battles were occurring all over the country.

"I think that (perception) was largely in the minds of mostly-outside pundits," Cabaldon commented. "Within this community, it was a local election, with the candidates describing their qualifications and not attacking each other. We had a crop of good candidates step forward to run."

Was Cabaldon shocked by the amount of money in this WUSD campaign?

"Yes and no," he answered. "As mayor of our city, yes. To say it's impressive is a vast understatement for a school board race in our community."

Though Castillo lost, Cabaldon said he had confidence in Kirby-Gonzalez.

"Sarah is a very good candidate and she will be a good board member," he said.

This special election resulted from a citizen's petition which the mayor had supported, while others decried the election's cost. Citizens called for the election unhappy about how the school board had initially filled the vacant seat on the board.

Cabaldon said he is pleased at the outcome, despite the fact that the candidate he supported didn't win.

"The key was that the voters got to make the decision, and the community and district are all better off for having this discussion about the issues in our district," said Cabaldon.

'Family literacy night'

Westfield Village Elementary School in West Sacramento celebrated "Read Across America" week with its own family literacy celebration on Feb. 27. Over 200 children and parents showed up, receiving information in English and Spanish on things families can do at home to promote reading and literacy.

Several students read programs, and K-5 grade classes had booths on display.

Visiting to help read to the kids at the program were city councilman Oscar Villegas, school board member and Yolo County Children's Alliance director Katie Villegas, and school superintendent Dayton Gilleland.

"Through third grade, children learn to read," said Katie Villegas in a press release. "Starting in fourth grade, students read to learn. We cannot overstate the importance of children learning to read at grade level by the end of third grade."

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

INTRODUCTION

The City of West Sacramento desires to retain the professional services of a qualified architectural/engineering consulting firm to assist with planning, engineering and permitting of the Raley's Dock and optional Rice Mill Pier.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Previously, the dock was owned by the Raley's Corporation. The dock had been used as a boarding area for the Elizabeth Louise, a steam-powered paddlewheel, and for the River Otter Taxi service. The dock was located at West Sacramento's River Walk Park, 651 Waterfront Place, on the Sacramento River, just upstream from the Tower Bridge.

The dock had been barricaded and unused for more than five years and was in a state of disrepair. Raley's and the City were in discussions about transferring the dock and gangway to the City when the Central Valley Flood Protection Board (CVFPB) ordered removal of the floating dock because of concern that it could break up and float away, becoming a public safety hazard and an obstruction in the floodway. The CVFPB requested that the dock be removed on an emergency basis, before winter storms and high water set in.

The City had applied to the State Lands Commission to obtain the lease for the dock area and agreed to undertake removal of the dock and gangway as ordered by the CVFPB. Removal of the dock, gangway and levee ramp occurred from 12/14/11 until 1-12-12.The city intends to replace the dock with a facility that is open to the public, meets all contemporary building and safety standards, and is fully accessible and compliant with the accessibility requirements of the American with Disabilities Act.

SCOPE OF WORK

The consultant shall be responsible for actively managing the project and for a comprehensive design, environmental review, and impact documentation and regulatory permitting. Per the State Lands Commission, engineering plans shall reach 65% completion prior to November 30th, 2013.

At a minimum, all proposals should include the following tasks:

- Project management
- Surveying and Base Mapping
- Design: including marine, civil, structural, geotechnical and mechanical engineering
- Environmental review and permitting
- Two public outreach meetings, Public presentation of Environmental Document (addressing public comments), two presentations to City Council, one Arts Commission, and one Parks Commission presentations are anticipated.
- Environmental assessment and document
- Construction cost estimates

Consultants are expected to include any additional work items that they feel are appropriate and/or necessary for the successful completion of this project.

Please go to the City of West Sacramento web site for the full Request for Proposal document.

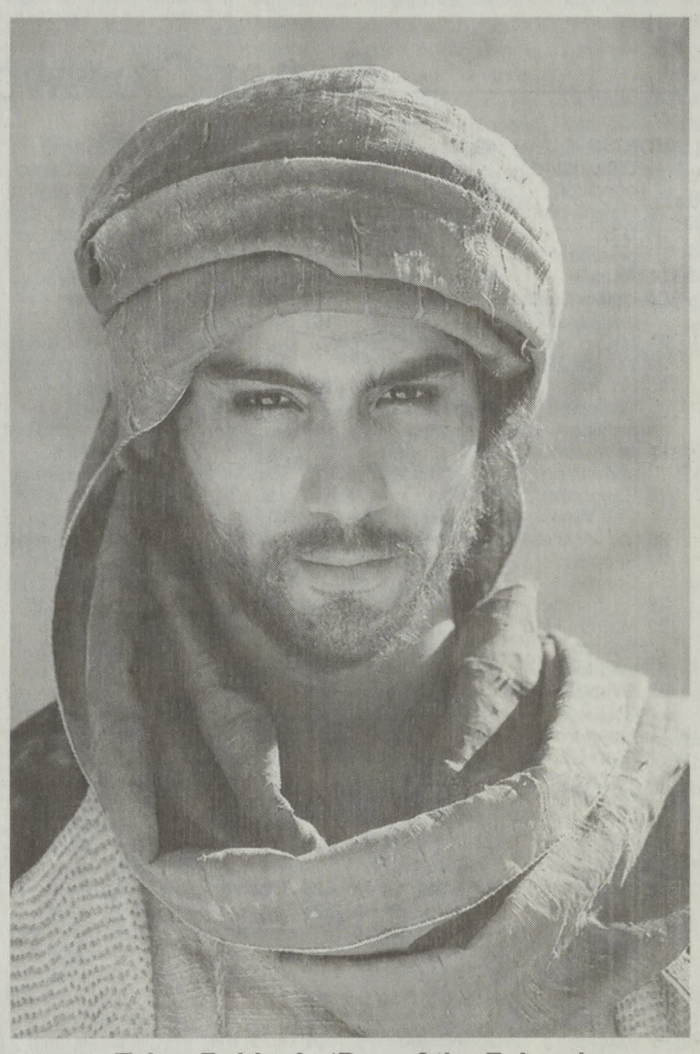
COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Parental Guidance" (PG) -- Grandpa Artie (Billy Crystal) and Grandma Diane (Bette Midler) agree to babysit their three grandchildren. The kids' parents, (Marisa Tomei, Tom Everett Scott) are oh-so busy, yet manage to coddle the kids too much. It's up to the grandparents to restore common sense and family warmth to the household.

If you thought all of the old family sitcom humor was used up by "Full House," "Cheaper by the Dozen" and all their ilk ... you were right. There are only scraps of humor left for "Parental Guidance" to nibble on. It's a predictable, cloying mess. All of the touchy-feely group-hug stuff is shoehorned into the end of the movie like a last-minute confession for all of the stale bits and toilet jokes that make up the rest of the film.



Tahar Rahim in 'Day of the Falcon'

"Killing Them Softly" (R) -- A couple of small-time crooks rob a poker game full of crime bosses. Their little mistake does not go unpunished. The robbed mobsters call in Jackie (Brad Pitt), a ruthless killer with a surprising self-awareness, to right some wrongs and make everything all better. Witty and gritty dialog gets tossed around in between bouts of vicious violence.

Pitt doesn't disappoint. He plays a tough guy who's too cool to act tough. In a world of takers, losers, smart guys and victims, Jackie knows just where he fits in. If anything, the dialog and seedy-underbelly setting get too self-aware. The movie has a lot to say about capitalism and the American Dream. If you want a thriller with a charismatic lead, you can't miss this one.

"A Royal Affair" (R) -- King Christian VII of Denmark was a difficult man to be around. In a world

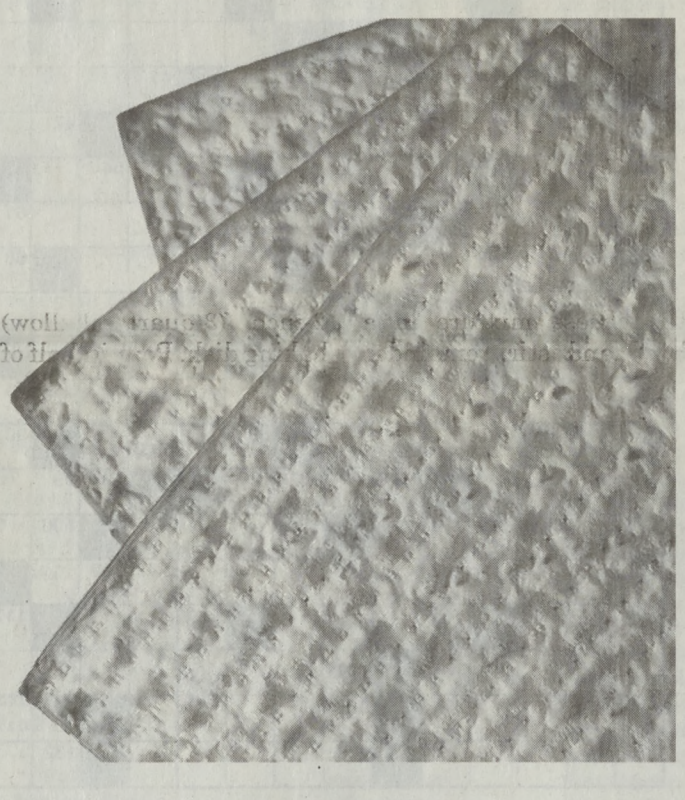
The Kitchen Diva

BY Angela Shelf Medearis

'Poor Man's Bread' Makes a Rich Dish

The Passover holiday, also known as "The Feast of the Unleavened Bread," commemorates the Jewish exodus from Egypt and their freedom from slavery. Matzoh, an unleavened type of bread, is traditionally eaten during Passover. Matzoh also is called "poor man's bread." It is eaten during the holiday as a reminder to be humble, to always appreciate freedom and to not forget what life was like as slaves in Egypt. Matzoh bread is similar to the type of bread eaten by the Hebrews during ancient times. The most common type of matzoh is hard and cracker-like, although there is a soft matzo that is similar in texture to a flat bread. Modern types of matzoh include onion flavored, whole-wheat and gluten-free.



My Spinach and Matzoh Pie recipe transforms the bread into a texture similar to phyllo dough by soaking it for 15 minutes. The Pie can be assembled (but not baked) 1 day ahead, covered and refrigerated. It also can be eaten hot or at room temperature, making it the perfect dish to take along when traveling to a Passover dinner.

SPINACH AND MATZOH PIE

1 medium yellow onion, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 (10-ounce) packages frozen, chopped spinach, thawed
3 tablespoons mild salsa
1/3 cup plus 2 tablespoons chopped dill or parsley, divided
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 (16-ounce) container ricotta cheese
2 cups half and half milk
3 large eggs
1/2 teaspoon Drogheria & Alimentari Nutmeg Mill, grated nutmeg
6 ounces feta, crumbled (1 1/2 cups), divided

of pretty costumes, elaborate events and decadent lifestyles sits pretty Queen Caroline Mathilda. Along comes Johann Struensee, a brilliant, charming physician who represents the reason and enlightenment of a new age. Of course, a love triangle forms. Mixed in with all of this are some well-crafted political drama. Add in the 18th-century costumes, sets and delicate direction -- and you're looking at a rent-worthy foreign-language period piece.

"Day of the Falcon" (R) -- In the Middle East, two rival warlords finally agree to end a long, bloody war. Emir Nuad (Antonio Banderas) takes in two sons from his rival, Sultan Amar (Mark Strong.) Unfortunately for everyone, it's the 1920s, and oil is discovered in what the two men agreed would be neutral territory. When one tries to profit, the peace is broken and the younger generation must face the consequences of their fathers' war. It's a fun film to watch, but some vital element is missing -- an otherwise interesting tale fails to make an emotional impact.

6 matzos (about 6 inches square)

1. Preheat oven to 400 F with rack in middle.
2. Cook onion in oil in a large, heavy skillet over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until golden, 12 minutes. Add garlic and cook 2 to 3 minutes to soften.
3. Meanwhile, put spinach in a sieve and press out as much liquid as possible. Add spinach and 2 tablespoons of salsa to onion and garlic. Cook, stirring occasionally, 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in 1/3 cup dill or parsley, 1/2 teaspoon salt and a 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
4. Puree ricotta cheese in a blender with milk, eggs, nutmeg, and the remaining 1 tablespoon of salsa and the 1/2 teaspoon each of salt and pepper until smooth. Reserve 2 cups of the cheese mixture in a bowl and stir remainder in with the spinach, along with 1 cup of the feta.
5. Stack matzos in a deep dish and pour reserved cheese mixture over them. Let stand 15 minutes to soften. Soaking allows the matzos to absorb the flavors and the moisture helps keep exposed matzo ends from burning.
6. Arrange 2 soaked matzos side by side in a generously oiled 13- by 9- by 2-inch (3-quart shallow) baking dish. Pour in half of spinach filling. Cover with 2 more matzos, then pour in remaining filling. Put remaining 2 matzos on top and pour any remaining cheese mixture over them. Sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup feta.
7. Bake, uncovered, until golden and set, 30 to 35 minutes. Cool 10 to 15 minutes to allow dish to set up. Serve sprinkled with remaining 2 tablespoons dill or parsley. Serve hot or room temperature.

Local Agency Formation Commission of Yolo County
Notice of Public Hearing

March 5, 2013

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Thursday March 28, 2013 at 9:00 am, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCo) will hold a Public Hearing at the Yolo County Board of Supervisors Chambers, 625 Court Street, Room 206, Woodland, CA to consider the following agenda item:

Project Title:
Davis Cemetery District Annexation (LAFCo № 915)

Project Description:
On January 7, 2013, the Yolo Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCo) received an application from the Yolo County Davis Cemetery Special District (District) to expand its existing boundaries by annexing all the lands in its Sphere of Influence planning boundary. The existing cemetery in Davis has sufficient capacity to accommodate the new area and no new cemetery sites are proposed. By enlarging the District's boundary line, residents in the newly annexed area would have a public cemetery option for burial services. The District is not seeking any property tax revenue for this subject territory. Cemetery burial costs would instead be handled by the District instituting a two-tiered fee system correlating to the tax rate area zone of benefit.

Location:

Environmental Review:
The project is exempt from review under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to Section 15061(b)(3) of Title 14, Division 6, Chapter 3, Article 5 of the California Code of Regulations (State CEQA Guidelines).

Contact:
Christine M. Crawford, AICP
LAFCo Executive Officer
(530) 666-8048 or christine.crawford@yolocounty.org

The application, description and maps, are on file at the LAFCo office, 625 Court Street, Suite 203 Woodland, California. The Executive Officer's Report and the Agenda will be posted at least five days prior to the noticed hearing at the above address and online at www.yololafco.org. All interested parties are invited to attend the public hearing.

In compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, if you need special assistance to participate in this meeting, please call Commission Clerk Terri Tuck at (530) 666-8048. Notification 48 hours prior to the meeting will enable LAFCo to make reasonable arrangements to ensure accessibility.

Sophronia loves it. She makes friends all over the ship, including a resourceful sootie from the engine room called Soap, and Vieve, a junior mechanical genius. But she makes enemies as well, like the vicious and cagey Monique, who seems to know something about the mysterious missing "prototype" that teachers, pirates and shadowy government agents alike are after. A semester of schemes and secrets culminates in a covert battle at Sophronia's first fancy ball, in which all her newfound skills of fan-waving, eyelash-fluttering and villain-vanquishing will be put to the test.

"Etiquette & Espionage" shares the same setting as Carriger's earlier "Parasol Protectorate" series: a pseudo-Victorian steampunky England where the supernatural coexists with the mundane. It's an inventive and whimsical place, populated by people with names like Mrs. Barnaclegoose and Lord Dingleproops, and peppered with marvels like clockwork butlers, tiny steam-powered pet dachshunds and exploding wicker chickens.

With relatable characters, daring escapades and a hint of young romance, this is the first book of a new series that promises to be a lot of fun.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.
NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale.
